

TINY TOTS MAKE FIRST
BOW TO AUDIENCE

Primary and Intermediate Pupils of Cadek Conservatory Give Program.

The second of the closing recitals of Cadek Conservatory of Music was presented last night at the conservatory hall before a large audience. The following piano pupils of Misses Lora Woodworth, Isabel Woodworth and Lillian Cadek, of the primary and intermediate grades, many of them little tots from 6 to 8 years of age, played mostly from memory and gave evidences of careful training: Neal Peak, Janie Ledford, Thelma Rice, Beatrice Thomas, Elizabeth Webb, Jack Whitaker. Little Carlton Kreis played "Funeral March" and "The Witch," by Tschalkowsky, with remarkable precision and rhythm. Dorcas Hutcheson, Walter Owenby and J. Haggard rendered their respective pieces neatly, and were technically well above the average.

The violin pupils of Prof. Joseph O. Cadek, beginning with little Lora Hutcheson and 8-year-old Lester Grant, acquitted themselves in good style. A little cello player, Minnie Fine, played "Romance and Gavotte," by Alletier, with good tone and spirit, while Herman Brenner, Mildred Garner and Jenny Lee Bowen exhibited facility of bowing and intonation.

The expression department of Miss Gussie Blanton was represented by three readers, Sidney Eddlestein, Easton Webb and Bernice Jones, whose reading of "Where Ignorance Is Bliss" was especially well given. The program was concluded by a well-rendered violin trio, "Spring Idyl," by Schumann, played by Misses Helen Winn, Annie Orgain and William Brownlee. Every number on the program was heartily applauded and some of the young artists received flower gifts. Tonight a program by more advanced pupils will be rendered. The public is cordially invited. Admission to all recitals is free.

DEAN SARAH LOUISE ARNOLD

Speaker for Food Administration to deliver lecture here.

Miss Sarah Louise Arnold, authorized speaker for the United States food administration, will deliver a lecture Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Baptist church. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon she will speak at the courthouse. Besides being a lecturer and author of note, Miss Arnold enjoys the distinction of being dean of Simmons college, which position she has filled since 1903. She is also a member of the advisory committee on education of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Among the books she has written are "Waymarks for Teachers" and "Stapingtons to Literature." The latter is said by librarians throughout the country to be the most popular book of its kind with children.

Dean Arnold was born in North Abington, Mass., and was graduated from the Massachusetts State Normal college. After teaching in schools of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and other states she was appointed supervisor of schools at Minneapolis. This position she filled for seven years, later taking a similar position in the Boston, Mass., school system.

MISS HENDERSON WEDS
WILLIAM BECK, OF OHIO

Wedding Solemnized Tuesday Evening at Bride's Home in Henderson Place.

Miss Frankie Emily Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Henderson, and William Beck, of Dover, O., were married Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the bride's home in Henderson Place. Dr. T. S. McCallie, of the Central Presbyterian church, was the officiating minister.

Quantities of daisies and other spring flowers were used in decorating the home. Miss Velma McKinney presided at the piano. The attendants were Mrs. A. H. Eitz, Mrs. Howard Rennie, Mrs. L. L. Albin, Jr., and little Miss Anne Pearl Chivington.

The bride wore a becoming costume of blue cloth with accessories to match. Mrs. Beck is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henderson. She is a graduate of Central High school, and for the past few years has been teacher of domestic art at that institution.

Mr. Beck is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Beck, of North Chattanooga. Mr. and Mrs. Beck have gone to Dover, O., to reside, where the bridegroom is connected with one of the large coke oven plants.

FOUR GRADUATES STEP INTO SCHOOL OF LIFE

Tribute to Flag Feature of Commencement of Notre Dame School.

Four graduates of Notre Dame school appeared on the program of commencement at the school on East Eighth street Tuesday night. The exercises were well attended. The graduating address was made by the Rev. Father Francis T. Sullivan.

The commencement poem was written and read by Thomas P. Duffy. Those having finished the prescribed course of the school were the Misses Kathleen Boyle Degan, Catherine Helen Norf, Ethel Lee Beck and Thomas Patrick Duffy. The girls' flowers were given and roses. The music of the occasion was an interesting feature.

"Motherland" was sung by the pupils, with Miss Gussie Blanton as soloist. "The End of a Perfect Day" was played as a violin obligato to the commencement poem. "The Star-Spangled Banner" was sung in chorus. The address to the flag was given by the graduates.

DEMOCRACY IN DRESS HERE FOR WOMEN

(By Winona Wilcox.)

"Wherewithal shall we be clothed?" is a question which agitated the National Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' association at its recent semi-annual session in Cleveland. Speakers said that "how clothes are to be made" for several seasons to come isn't half as worrisome as "what clothes are to be made of."

Wool, linen and cotton are all military necessities, and it seems that time and the war combine to make Dame Fashion a dyed-in-the-silk democrat. However the fabric shortage may come out, whatever substitute textiles may be invented, whether or not uniforms for women are adopted as a war economy, the day of extravagant styles has disappeared for a time, for all patriotic women.

The new democracy in dress is not to be deplored as indicating a loss of beauty to the world. On the contrary, it undoubtedly points to an improvement in the becomingness and appropriateness of woman's apparel.

Democracy means the right to act as one chooses, to eat what one chooses and to wear what one chooses—just as long as one's conduct does not interfere with the rights of others.

Fashion was at the height of her autocratic rule in the era immediately preceding the factory-made dress. Then she made all prosperous women look exactly alike in a near-uniform consisting of a black silk dress, seal-skin sack and solitary diamond earrings. Today women buy frocks which are made up in assorted sizes and sold by the dozen dozen, and yet there isn't the least hint of a uniform in their attire.

Today woman even cultivates a democratic taste in the size of her garments. If her figure is a "perfect 40" she is likely to purchase a "perfect 42" blouse one day and a "perfect 38" coat the next, according to what the shop has in stock. Certainly this willingness to adapt her shape to stock sizes is a supreme evidence of the new democracy in dress!

And any man can see that no single hat queens it over others. Some hats turn up behind and some slant down in front; some have a flower on top, some have a bow beneath the brim, and some are not trimmed anywhere; some are brimless and some have wide and floppy brims; some suggest antique and some futurist hat. There are flat hats and high hats and lace hats and velvet hats and hats with trailing widow veils, but there is no single exclusive hat which is the vogue and which every woman insists on wearing.

Fashion is notoriously as fickle as love, but today her democracy can neither be censured nor censured. Because women can choose their styles to suit their style, clothes are bound to be more becoming than ever, no matter what queer substitute materials are invented.

Fashion's new rules for beautiful dressing in war time are short and simple as all democratic maxims must be: Be individual without being conspicuous. Be economical without being dowdy.

ALL'S WELL WITH HIM

Corporal E. J. McDonald, of Company F, 167th United States Infantry, now in France, writes back to his parents that all is well with him over there. Corp. McDonald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. W. McDonald, of 1508 Bennett avenue, and went to France with the Rain-bow division. He says in his letter that the boys are all well and fine. He referred to a big baseball game which had just been broken up by the rain. He wrote that the weather was warm and that it was raining in the part of France where they were stationed nearly all of the time.

Young McDonald left many friends in Chattanooga, who will be glad to know of his safe arrival in France.

"JIM" DRAPER GUNNER ON TRANSPORT, WRITES HOME

Tells of Swatting Subs as Casual Incident—Swept Out to Sea in Storm.

"Believe me, those Germans have a wholesome respect for our torpedo boats," writes James Draper, son of Judge W. W. Draper, of Chattanooga, in a letter recently received by his family. The well-known Chattanooga boy has just recently arrived in America, having been a member of the crew of the old Duncan hotel and later manager of the Marion at Little Rock, Ark. He went from there to Nashville and had been manager of the Hermitage for five years. He was one of the most popular hotel men in the state and had many friends in Chattanooga, who will learn of his death with sincere regret.

News has been received here of the sudden death of Homer Wilson, manager of the Hermitage hotel, which occurred Tuesday in Nashville. Mr. Wilson dropped dead on the street from heart failure. His wife died two or three weeks ago and her death was as sudden as that of her husband.

Mr. Wilson was for years chief clerk of the old Duncan hotel and later manager of the Marion at Little Rock, Ark. He went from there to Nashville and had been manager of the Hermitage for five years. He was one of the most popular hotel men in the state and had many friends in Chattanooga, who will learn of his death with sincere regret.

There is yet a chance for men above draft age.

Washington, June 12.—To meet future needs for officers, the war department is considering a proposal that men from civil life who are above draft age and have special qualifications be admitted to the next and succeeding training camps. Even if all men already in the training camps are commissioned there will be a deficit in commissioned personnel for organizations under contemplation.

The trip over was very rough. A big storm started the third day out and lasted until within three days of Brest. We lost nearly all of the life boats when the heavy seas slammed the old ship. Never saw such a time in my life. We left with thirty other ships, but the storm blew them all over the Atlantic, and for ten days we were alone in the sea, with our wireless busted until a British cruiser ran across us and set us on the right road again.

Two days out from Brest, while in the Bay of Biscay, we were attacked by three submarines. The convoying destroyers which had just met us got one of them, but the other two got away after sinking the guide ship, a Britisher. We didn't get to fire a shot, because we were right in the middle of the feet and destroyers were buzzing all around us, some of them around forty miles an hour. Believe me, those Germans have a wholesome respect for our torpedo boats.

We landed in Brest, France, March 21, having left Newport News Feb. 27. Stayed one day in Brest, then down the coast to Bordeaux, staying

Cross, Feverish
Child Is Bilious
or Constipated

Look, Mother! See if tongue is coated, breath hot or stomach sour.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—(Adv.)

The Bravest Fight in the World

HE lies there in your arms, a tiny, helpless baby, making the bravest fight in the world—for health.

It's a hard fight for him when you can't nurse him, for he must have milk in some form.

Yet when you give him raw cows' milk—even with plenty of water—those tough curds hurt his little stomach, and the fight gets harder for your baby. But you can help him win. There is a form of milk which is the nearest thing in the world to Mother's milk.

IN this purest milk these tough curds have been broken up so they are easy to digest. To it has been added just the right amount of sugar and cereal. This is Nestlé's Food. It comes to you in an air-tight can, a fluffy, pure powder. You just add water—boil—and it is ready for your baby. Even as you make it, its rich fragrance seems to spell good health. Taste it yourself.

And now watch your baby begin to win his fight! Look at those cheeks get pink! Look at those little arms and legs fling out with firm, sturdy strength! See how happy he is all day, how well he sleeps all night!

You have helped him to win, by giving him milk—and in the best form for baby's stomach. If you send the coupon or a postcard, now, enough Nestlé's Food for 12 feedings will come by return mail, with the big 96-page book on Baby Care by specialists.

Help your baby win his fight for health—today!
